

Reflections on Consciousness

Imagine, if only our inner divine consciousness were to awaken how different our lives would be. Most mistakes committed throughout our existence, the bitterness experienced, and all the pain caused consciously or unconsciously to others would not exist! First was our childhood probably full of happiness and free of worries. Then came adolescence with all its challenges and concerns to know who we really were and what we really wanted out of life. Then adulthood with all those important decisions that could have been made with the spiritual inner light of consciousness allowing us to make the right choices. Gnosis taught us that with our actions and through the law of Karma-Dharma, we all receive the right compensation for our actions making us learn from our own mistakes. Now that we know better, we contemplate the madness, the unconscious, the cruelty of the world around us. Humans so numbed by their own fantasies, fascinated by worldly problems. How hard it is to understand that awakening of consciousness comes about only after the psychological death of the EGO we carry inside. Perhaps that's why we all remain so asleep, still not really knowing where we come from, what we are doing in our present existence, or where we are going. What a great treasure consciousness is and how different our lives would be if it were awakened.

Bio-Photonic Light

Bio-photons are constantly emitted by all living systems. The term "bio" always refers to the biological origin of these emissions. These are studied by quantum optics, a branch of modern science. Its activity is recorded in all living beings, a phenomenon not limited to the heat radiation, but to the entire luminescence spectrum.

According to the older biochemical theory, the bio-photon emissions were a "waste" of the metabolic processes but the modern theory of quantum coherence indicates that low-level radiation emitted by all living things are a communication channel of optimized optics present in all biological systems in living matter.

Evidence shows a remarkable degree of coherence in all bio-photon emission. Optical coherence involves a systematic approach in which light waves are able to carry information. The conclusion of this is that the recently discovered universal phenomenon of bio-luminescence is responsible for the transfer of information inside and outside cells; an intra and extra cellular communication system aiding in the regulation of metabolic activities of the cells, their growth and differentiation as well as in their evolutionary development .

In fact, we have discovered a remarkable biological situation, a field of electromagnetic waves that surround living things located in space-time continuum facilitating a highly flexible, but probably even more deterministic interaction with the surrounding matter.

Instead of single photons, we have to take into account refined interference patterns of electromagnetic fields that can vary from nanometers to meters or more.

Esoteric teachings have always recognized the existence of different subtle energy fields that penetrate and interpenetrate within the space-time of human body known as the internal bodies; astral, mental, causal etc., which exert their influence on all physical organs and this is precisely what we are beginning to discover by modern scientific quantum science.

Deep Reflection

What is the point of becoming scholars if we are unable to truly know ourselves. Intellectual information is far from authentic wisdom, the latter involves a deep understanding of ourselves, the world and of others as well. Inner knowledge begins with the study of our own psychology. We begin by understanding our psychological ego. Its multiplicity and its contradictions, must be discovered within the convoluted facets of our sub-consciousness. It will also be necessary to study the ego's vehicle of expression, our personality. Indeed it was created from all the early experiences of infancy and childhood. Thereafter, reinforced by time and life's experiences, and refined through the education and the culture we grew up with.

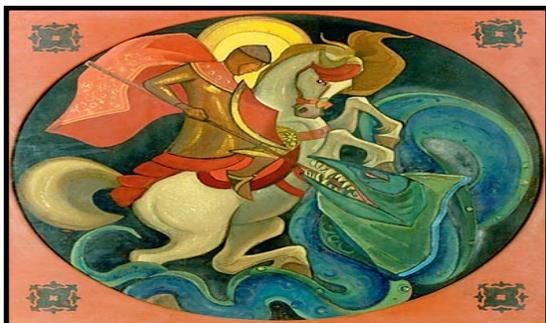

Master Samael indicates that the deep facets of the psychological ego should be discovered in our daily inter-social relations and then studied in meditation but without the depressing process of reasoning we are so used to. This means that only under the light of consciousness can we see our psychological ego as it really is. Reasoning can turn things around; seeing them from different angles, labeling them, etc, but truly understanding it is only possible under the light of deep and peaceful consciousness.

None of this would be possible without the development of the inner faculty of psychological self-observation which needs to be applied from moment to moment in our daily lives. This ability results from the practice of deep meditation.

Penetrating deep inside to the levels where consciousness can manifest without the process of reasoning is a must. Reasoning is good but on its own level, it is a great instrument at the service of the intellect helping us succeed in the practical world. For external world matters it is extraordinary but for the inner life and spiritual tasks we should put reasoning aside. The Master has taught us the different steps of meditation; which are:

- 1) Asana or position
- 2) Dharana or concentration
- 3) Dyhana or meditation and
- 4) Samadhi or enlightenment.

As we can see, there is no reasoning step. Deep reflection is a result of consciousness activity in the absence of reasoning after having gained control of posture and mind just as we all do naturally when our body sleeps every night.

Venerable Master Samael's Example

Venerable Master Samael certainly gave us a great example with his exemplary life, he was the quintessential Gnostic Missionary, one that gave his life for Gnosis. He delivered the Aquarian Age message to humanity and continued working hard until the end of his physical life.

The Venerable Master never felt he was better than anyone or signaled that he knew more than everybody else; he always taught that the wisdom emanating from him belonged to his inner being. He was a great example of humbleness as well.

Master Samael fought hard to deliver his message trying to make humans liberate themselves from ignorance and unconscious dreaming, he taught us to follow only our own inner being.

He made one big movement and asked for cooperation, not like many others who feeling they know more than everyone else decide to separate from the Gnostic institutions to form their own groups. This has happened more than once in the history of the Gnostic movement and unfortunately repeats from time to time.

Consciously or unconsciously they have all opposed to the Aquarian spirit of fraternal cooperation, committing with their actions the worst of heresies, separativity. They have formed their own separate groups, slowly but surely moving away little by little from the original teaching of VM Samael Aun Weor.

Always remember that the synthesis of all knowledge is the three factors of the revolutionary psychology. It is all we need for the inner revolution as taught
